

Resort investment growing

Residential developers are increasingly interested in holiday resort projects, according to CEE Property Group. The company's research into the matter noted a growing trend in apartment construction in seaside and mountain towns. Moreover, such property purchases are increasingly being made as investments to lease during the holiday season. It's not just small developers in the market either. Larger firms, such as Kristensen Group, Inpro, Gant Development, Polnord and PKO Inwestycje are involved in – or weighing – investments in resort towns where land prices are relatively low. ●
